Has a BIG CHECK arrived in the mail for you recently, sight unseen?

Maybe the letter that comes with the check says it's from Publishers Clearinghouse, or another prize company. Or maybe you received a check in the mail as a "bonus" saying you can make some money by taking a survey.

Before you take that check to the bank, be aware that these letters might be SCAMS!!

Before you know it, the sender is asking YOU to pay money, for taxes, processing fees, or something else. And that check they sent you? It will bounce, even though your bank might initially show it as cleared in your account. And if you draw funds on it, your bank might be asking you for overdraft fees as well. Publishers Clearinghouse will NEVER call, email, or write in advance to say you are going to be a big winner. They will NEVER ask you to pay taxes or any money in advance to collect your prize. And they'll NEVER send you a big check in the mail.

Don't fall for prize scams, and don't cash that check!!!
